

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

- A method of depositing a predoped organic light emitting material to form a layer in an organic light-emitting device, includes providing a homogeneous solid mixture capable of being deposited which includes at least one
- 5 organic light-emitting host material and at least one luminescent organic dopant material; and depositing the homogeneous solid mixture to form a layer in an organic light emitting device.